

Association of Congregations Service Award

The Gustavus Adolphus College Association of Congregations Service Award recognizes alumni and former students of Gustavus Adolphus College who have made distinctive commitments and contributions to the service of others. Gustavus Adolphus College, and the Association of Congregations celebrate the efforts of members of the college community who participate in service activities through volunteer work, involvement in the church, and extraordinary professional accomplishments.

The College's commitment to service is expressed in its mission statement which calls for "a mature understanding of the Christian faith, service to others, a sense of community, an international perspective, and attitudes and behaviors that work toward a free and peaceful world." The Covenant Statement between Gustavus and the Association of Congregations further encourages members of the Gustavus community to view their "life's work as vocation, a call to service for the greater good of the community."

Eligibility Guidelines

Alumni and former students of Gustavus serve others through their concern for human dignity, moral values, social justice, the care of the earth, the alleviating of poverty, and a range of other social issues. The selection of recipients for the Service Award will emphasize:

- the level of commitment and effort;
- the benefit to others;
- the absence of a concern for personal gain;
- alumni and former students of Gustavus who embody, through their work, aspects of the mission of the college, as listed above.
