ABOUT GUSTAVUS ADOLPHUS COLLEGE

Old Main

Gustavus Adolphus College is a private, residential, liberal arts college located on a scenic hilltop overlooking the Minnesota River Valley. From state-of-the-art facilities to unique course requirements and 66 options for academic majors, the college provides an undergraduate education of recognized excellence for its students.

Nurturing intellectual growth has been a focus at Gustavus Adolphus since Swedish immigrants established the college in 1862. In 1983 the college earned a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, the nation's oldest and most prestigious undergraduate honor organization recognizing excellence in liberal learning.

Old Main, which is now a historic landmark, housed the entire college during the early years of the school. It currently is home for six of the College's 24 academic departments. Other departments are now housed in eight other major buildings. The Folke Bernadotte Memorial Library, which contains more than 260,000 volumes, complements the academic facilities.

The college has a 4-1-4 calendar, meaning that the students take four classes during the fall semester, one in January and four classes during the spring semester. The January Interim Experience (IEX) provides a unique opportunity for students to take classes not otherwise offered, such as bronze casting, robotics, or deaf awareness. Students also often use the IEX to travel abroad or undertake an internship.

Gustavus Adolphus offers a choice of two curriculum programs to fulfill basic requirements. Curriculum I offers courses in seven broad liberal art areas. Curriculum II, which is limited to 60 entering students each year, provides a sequence of interrelated core classes. First-year students in the Curriculum I program are required to take a First Term Seminar, a discussion-based class of around 16 students that introduces them to a liberal arts education. The FTS professor also serves as a student's academic advisor. Gustavus Adolphus is a residential college, where more than 2,000 students out of its total of nearly 2,600 live in campus residential facilities. The college recently completed a new campus center to better serve its campus community.

Nurturing lives of service is a key element of the college's mission. The Community Service Center on campus provides opportunities for students to be involved in volunteer activities. A number of its programs - Big Partners/Little Partners, Amigos, and Study Buddies - have received awards for the services they provide to the greater St. Peter-Mankato community.

Gustavus Adolphus offers varsity athletics competition in 25 sports, participating at the Division III level as part of the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. Lund Center for Physical Education and Health is home to many of the teams and to an intramural program that attracts more than 75 percent of the college's enrollment. Gustavus Adolphus has ranked in the top 25 in 11 of the past 12 years in NACDA Directors' Cup competition, a measure of overall athletics program excellence for schools competing in Division III.

Christ Chapel

The college's Linnaeus Arboretum, named for the famous Swedish botanist Carolus Linnaeus, is a 55-acre site landscaped to model the major natural ecosystems in Minnesota. The "Arb" includes 2.5 miles of paths that are great for walking or cross-country skiing. There are also a variety of gardens and a rock overlook.

From academics to student life, Gustavus Adolphus offers a wide range of opportunities and provides an environment that supports the success of its students.

BOWDOIN COLLEGE POLAR BEARS

HEAD
COACH
HOLBACH

Paul Holbach is in his first season as the head coach of the women's tennis team at Bowdoin College.

Holbach graduated cum laude from Gustavus Adolphus College in 1980 as one of the most distinguished players in the history of the school. A two-time Division III All-American, Holbach was the 1980 Division III Doubles Champion and finished his career with over 110 wins in singles and doubles play. Subsequently, Holbach was inducted into the Gustavus Athletic Hall of Fame.

In 1988 he became the assistant coach at UCLA where he helped lead them to the NCAA Semifinals. During this time, at UCLA he worked individually with players such as Stella Sampras.

For the next seven years, Hobie became one of the premier women's coaches in Southern California. The roster of players he coached during this period includes Lindsay Davenport, Kimberly Po, Debbie Graham, Heather Willens, Nicole London, Marianne Werdel and Jean Ceniza.

He has also spent two summers directing Tennis Safari, a program for underprivileged children in Kenya.

As a former Division III player, Hobie loves the passion and desire that student-athlete possess. He feels that there is no better place in the country for a student to pursue the rich experience of athletics and academics than at Bowdoin.

THIS IS BOWDOIN COLLEGE

Bowdoin is an independent, nonsectarian, coeducational residential, undergraduate liberal arts institution founded in 1794. It is located in Brunswick, Maine, a town of 21,000 on the Maine coast, and with a total of 118 buildings, the campus encompasses nearly 205 acres of land. Study at Bowdoin leads to a bachelor of arts degree in one of over 40 departmental and interdisciplinary majors. Bowdoin enrolls approximately 1,710 students from across the country and around the world, and continues to receive generous support from its 19,000 alumni.

Bowdoin is also the home of two extraordinary museums. The Museum of Art houses one of the oldest and most prized college art collections in the nation, encompassing more than 15,000 objects in categories including Ancient; European; American; Non-Western; Modern & Contemporary; and Prints, Drawings, and Photography. The Peary-MacMillan Arctic Museum and its collections reflect the long tradition of work in the Arctic by Bowdoin faculty, students, and alumni since 1860. The Museum is named in honor of two famous Arctic explorers and Bowdoin alumni, Robert E. Peary (Class of 1877) and Donald B. MacMillan (Class of 1898).

BIG RED

HEAD
BURLING

Head tennis coach Peter Burling enters his 18th year as head of the men's tennis team and his ninth year leading the women's squad in 2007-08. Bringing a tremendous amount of experience and leadership to the tennis programs, Burling has been at the head of a continuously winning tradition.

Dominating the North Coast Athletic Conference once again in 2008, the women's tennis team claimed the conference championship for the seventh consecutive season. Plowing their way through the competition, they advanced to the NCAA Quarterfinals for the third time out of the last four seasons following a close match between the region's second-ranked team, DePauw. Overall, the team finished the year with a 20-3, 6-0 in the conference.

In 2005 Burling was honored as the Wilson/ITA National Women's Tennis Coach of the Year after directing the Big Red to their first ever appearance in the NCAA Division III Quarterfinals.

Under Burling's guidance, the women have gone 152-44 over the past seven seasons and they have not lost a North Coast Athletic Conference match in seven seasons. In all, they have gone 50-2 in conference play with Burling as the head coach. A six-time NCAC coach of the year, 2008 marked Denison's seventh consecutive trip to the NCAA tournament.

THIS IS DENISON UNIVERSITY

Founded in 1831, Denison University has a reputation for challenging academics. However, energetic, discussion-oriented classes and dedicated faculty are just part of what distinguishes Denison's programs. Denison University is a selective, four-year, private, residential liberal arts college. It is located in Granville, Ohio, a college community just 27 miles east of Columbus, the state capital. Denison combines outstanding classroom experiences with opportunities to test knowledge in the real world.

The University has more than 48 majors, concentrations and programs of study. Denison's campus is beautiful and exceptionally well-suited for its academic mission. It features a mixture of historic and contemporary buildings, and state-of-the-art science facilities. Spanning 1,000 acres, the campus includes a 350-acre biological reserve. All buildings, academic, residential and athletic, are within walking distance of each other, which helps build a sense of community.

Through abundant and diverse cocurricular pursuits, Denison students are provided with valuable opportunities for personal growth and improvement. At Denison academic achievement is emphasized, and development of leadership potential is encouraged.

EMORY UNIVERSITY EAGLES

HEAD COACH AMY BRYANT

Amy Bryant is the fifth person and first female in NCAA history, in any division, to win the national team championship as a coach and player. She did the former in 2003, 2004, 2005, and 2006 and the latter as the No. 1 singles player on Emory's 1996 national championship team.

Bryant assumed the head coaching duties in 2000. In her seven seasons, the Eagles made seven appearances in the NCAA national quarterfinals and five appearances in the NCAA team championship finals. She was selected the national Division III Coach of the Year by the Intercollegiate Tennis Association in 2003, and the ITA Regional Division III Coach of the Year in 2002, 2003, and 2004.

Her 2006 squad became the first Division III team ever to win a fourth consecutive national championship, while her 2003 squad became the second in Division III women's tennis history to win the NCAA team, singles and doubles championships.

Bryant, a 1996 Emory graduate, was the first women's tennis player in school history to earn All-America honors in both singles and doubles. She was the runner-up in the NCAA national singles championship her junior season and teamed up to reach the semifinals of the NCAA doubles championship her senior year. All four years, Bryant made the all-conference first team in singles and doubles.

CARLSON

Heidi Carlson begins her first year as head coach of the Gustavus women's tennis team. Carlson, a native of Hutchinson, Minnesota, has been the assistant women's coach for the past ten years. She replaces her husband, Jon Carlson, who will remain with the program as an assistant coach.

A 1993 graduate of Gustavus, Heidi was a key member of the 1990 NCAA National Championship team when as a first-year player, Carlson and doubles partner Molly McCormick won the decisive match that clinched the national title against UC-San Diego 5-4. During her standout four-year career, she earned All-America honors in 1992 when she advanced to the NCAA doubles semifinals with partner Tracey Erickson and was a member of three conference championship teams. Since Coach Carlson became an assistant coach for the women's tennis program in 1997, Gustavus has won 11 consecutive MIAC titles and made 11 consecutive appearances in the NCAA National Tournament.

THIS IS GUSTAVUS ADOLPHUS COLLEGE

Gustavus Adolphus College is an undergraduate residential liberal arts college located in St. Peter, Minnesota. Founded in 1862 by Swedish immigrants, it is the oldest Lutheran college in Minnesota. Gustavus offers students a liberal arts education of recognized excellence, provided by faculty who embody the highest standards of teaching and scholarship. Small classes, an active and embracing community, and personal attention are the hallmarks of the College, where many of its more than 2,500 full-time students engage in collaborative research with their professors.

The College is fully accredited and is well-known for its strong writing, science, music, and award-winning community service programs. In addition, over 75 percent of students are involved in varsity of intramural athletics and many students take advantage of opportunities to study abroad.

Gustavus has hosted a local chapter of Phi Beta Kappa since 1983 and is internationally recognized for its annual Nobel Conference. The College seeks to instill in its students a capacity and passion for lifelong learning and to prepare them for fulfilling lives in leadership and service in society. The significance of its impact on student lives is reflected in the support and continuing involvement of an extraordinary percentage of its nearly 20,000 alumni.

PATRICK
CATULLO

In three seasons at the University of Mary Washington, Patrick Catullo and the Eagles have advanced greatly in each year of his tenure. The Eagles finished the 2006-07 season ranked 10th in the nation, their highest post-season ranking since finishing fourth in 1993, with a 22-3 season record.

A Mary Washington alumnus, Catullo has led the team to three Capital Athletic Conference championships and three NCAA Tournament appearances after coaching for five years at Broward (Fla.) Community College. While at Broward, Catullo produced 30 state champions, 12 national champions, and 23 All-Americans. A two-time NJCAA National Coach of the Year, his Seahawk teams posted a 76-22 overall record, including a 43-1 conference mark.

Prior to his work at Broward CC, where he also worked as sports information director and assistant athletic coordinator, he served as an assistant coach at Flagler College and as a tennis pro at the ATP Country Club in Ponte Vedra, Fla.

THIS IS THE UNIVERSITY OF MARY WASHINGTON

Welcome to the University of Mary Washington. Students are linked to a deeply held tradition that traces back to the founders of the Republic with the leading edge of pedagogy and research.

Study the ideas of Washington and Monroe in the morning, and see them put into practice in the afternoon in Washington, D.C., or the statehouse in Richmond. Participate in an archaeological dig on one of our many active historical sites and then map the findings with the latest GIS techniques.

Ranked fourth in our class by U.S. News and World Report and in the top ten nationally in Peace Corps alumni, and with a Pulitzer-prize winning poet on faculty, UMW is an institution on the move. Our spectacular two campuses- one park-like and intimate, nestled in the picturesque, culturally lively city of Fredericksburg, and the other a sleek, high tech graduate and professional campus in the growing technology corridor of Stafford- offer students the best of all learning environments.

The University of Mary Washington is half way between the nation's capital and the capital of Virginia, and in a booming economic and entertainment region that is environmentally and historically conscious. There is no other institution like UMW.

HEAD
LEBEDEFF

Ann Lebedeff is Professor of Physical Education and Athletics and Head Women's Tennis Coach at Pomona-Pitzer. A former nationally ranked junior and collegiate player, Lebedeff won numerous national doubles titles, including the 1974 USTA National Women's Intercollegiate Doubles title, the 1970 New Zealand Women's Doubles Championship, and the U.S. Amateur Clay and Grass Courts Doubles titles in 1972.

Dr. Lebedeff's coaching career began at the University of Arizona in 1977-1985, where she was honored as the Western Collegiate Coach of the Year in 1985. After earning her doctorate, she continued her coaching and teaching career at Cal Poly Pomona from 1989-1998, as she coached both the men's and women's programs to national titles.

Notable coaching and professional awards include three NCAA Coach of the Year Awards (1990, 1992, 2001), and Coach of the Decade for Division II Women's Tennis. The International Tennis Hall of Fame honored her in 1999 with Tennis Educational Merit Award. In that same year, she was presented with the Rolex Meritorious Service Award presented by the Intercollegiate Tennis Association. She currently serves on committees for the Intercollegiate Tennis Association, the USTA, and the Women's Collegiate Hall of Fame.

THESE ARE POMONA-PITZER COLLEGES

Small classes, top-notch facilities and distinguished professors who work closely with students are key elements of a Pomona education. Established in 1887, Pomona College is widely regarded as one of the premier liberal arts colleges in America. The college is located in Claremont, California, a charming town 35 miles east of Los Angeles. Pomona is the founding member of The Claremont Colleges, a consortium of seven independent institutions blending the intimate atmosphere of small colleges with the academic and social resources of a university. Famous beaches, ski resorts, and Los Angeles' many cultural offerings all are within easy driving distance of the campus.

Pitzer College - private, undergraduate, coeducational college of the liberal arts and sciences - is consistently ranked among the best such colleges in the country. Located in Claremont, California, a city about 35 miles east of Los Angeles, Pitzer is an intimate college that is a member of The Claremont Colleges consortium. As a member of the consortium, the College benefits from the shared resources of seven colleges. Pitzer College offers a curriculum that spans more than 40 major fields and focuses on interdisciplinary, intercultural education. Blending classroom instruction with fieldwork, Pitzer engages a student's mind, heart and spirit by integrating educational resources on campus, abroad, and in the local community.

ISHIDA

Eric Ishida was promoted to head women's tennis coach in April 2008 after serving as interim head coach since August 2007. Ishida had previously served as the team's assistant coach for the 2007 season and he remains the assistant director of the Duchossois Tennis Center.

Ishida served as assistant coach for the Generals' run to the NCAA National Championship during the 2006-07 season. He helped lead W&L to a 25-1 overall record, an Old Dominion Athletic Conference title and the school's run through the NCAA Tournament towards its' first-ever national title.

A 2004 graduate of Ohio University with a bachelor of science degree in physical education, Ishida competed on the tennis team at Wright State University for three years before completing his degree work at Ohio University. While at Ohio University he was the student manager of the Ohio University Golf and Tennis Center and vice president, coach, and player for the OU Club tennis team.

Active in the local and national tennis community, Ishida currently serves on the board of the Rockbridge County Tennis Association and sits on the ITA Atlantic South Rankings Committee. Ishida has been instructing and coaching tennis since 2002 and also remains the assistant director of the W&L Duchossois Tennis Center.

THIS IS WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY

Founded in 1749, Washington and Lee University is named for two of the most influential men in American history: George Washington, whose generous endowment of $20,000 in 1796 helped the fledgling school (then known as Liberty Hall Academy) survive, and Robert E. Lee, whose presidency and innovative leadership brought the University into the national limelight.

The University is located in the historic city of Lexington (population 7,000) in the Great Valley of Virginia about three hours southwest of Washington, D.C. Washington and Lee's 35 principal buildings include the picturesque Washington College group forming the Colonnade facing Lee Chapel, where Robert E. Lee is buried.

The Colonnade and Lee Chapel are National Historic landmarks.

Washington and Lee is comprised of two undergraduate divisions, the College and the Williams School of Commerce, Economics, and Politics; and a graduate School of Law. The undergraduate institution offers 39 majors and more than 1,100 courses—an enviable curriculum for a school of only 1,770 undergraduate students. W&L also features the only fully-accredited business school and fully-accredited journalism program among the nation's top-tier liberal arts colleges.

W&L is also notable for its national and international student body. The class of 2011 includes students from over 40 states and 11 foreign countries. About 14 percent of undergraduates come from Virginia, with large numbers of students arriving from Maryland, Texas, Georgia, New York, Pennsylvania and California.

ALISON
SWAIN

Alison Swain graduated from Williams College in 2001 and earned a BA with High Honors in American Studies, Race & Ethnicity. She co-captained the women's tennis team and was a member of the first Williams women's tennis team to win the NCAA team championship title (2001). Swain was a four-year letter winner, a Scholar-Athlete All-American, and earned All-NESCAC honors.

Since 2001, Swain has pursued a career in athletics and education. She taught middle school humanities at Woodward Academy in College Park, GA where she also served as the head women's tennis coach. She led her team to a second place finish in the state AAAA tournament in 2004, their highest finish in school history.

In 2005 Swain earned a certificate in Education for Environment and Community from IslandWood, A School in the Woods where she spent a year as a residential field instructor. She went on to earn her Masters in Education from the University of Washington.

Swain continued to pursue tennis after Williams and became the top-ranked mother/daughter doubles team in 2003 when she and her mother won both the National Mother/Daughter Indoor and Grass Court doubles tournaments.

In addition to coaching women's tennis, Swain also serves as the assistant men's and women's squash coach in the winter.

THIS IS WILLIAMS COLLEGE

Established in 1793 with funds bequeathed by Colonel Ephraim Williams, the college is private, residential, and liberal arts, with graduate programs in the history of art and in development economics. The undergraduate enrollment is approximately 2,000 students.

Williams seeks to provide the finest possible liberal arts education by nurturing in students the academic and civic virtues, and their related traits of character. Academic virtues include the capacities to explore widely and deeply, think critically, reason empirically, express clearly, and connect ideas creatively. Civic virtues include commitment to engage both the broad public realm and community life, and the skills to do so effectively. These virtues, in turn, have associated traits of character.

The College is committed to its central endeavor of academic excellence in a community of learning that comprises students, faculty, and staff, and draws on the engagement of alumni and parents. Students are recruited from among the most able in the country and abroad and they are selected for the academic and personal attributes they can contribute to the educational enterprise, inside and outside the classroom. Our faculty is a highly talented group of teachers, scholars, and artists committed deeply to the education of our students and to involving them in their efforts to expand human knowledge and understanding through original research, thought, and artistic expression. Dedicated staff enable this teaching and learning to take place at the highest possible level, as does the involvement and support of our extraordinarily loyal parents and alumni.
