ABSTRACT:

The Milward Rodine collection consists of various lab workbooks created by Rodine for students to use in his classes along with grade books and personal papers. Workbooks comprise a number of ideas in several areas of physics. Grade books from 1950 to 1968 are included with various papers as he had them organized within each book. This collection also includes professional papers along with information on the Navy V-12 program and the Foucault Pendulum. Rodine obtained his doctorate from the University of Wisconsin-Madison and came to Gustavus Adolphus College in 1933 to work in the physics department. He died in his laboratory on 7 January 1969.
