ABSTRACT:

The Dolores (Gilbert) Lawson collection contains daily diaries where Lawson documented what was happening in her life on a day-to-day basis and other materials that she used to chronicle happenings in her life. Lawson grew up in Montana and moved to Minneapolis, Minnesota to finish her high school career, and later attended college for business. She moved to Saint Peter, Minnesota with her husband Rudolph “Rud” Lawson when he was offered a job at Gustavus Adolphus College. Dolores secured a job at Gustavus as an office manager in the Athletic Department. After retirement, she and her husband moved to San Juan, California in 1980. Dolores died in San Juan, California during 1995 and was survived by her four children.
